Mark Scheme for June 2022

OCR (Oxford Cambridge and RSA) is a leading UK awarding body, providing a wide range of qualifications to meet the needs of candidates of all ages and abilities. OCR qualifications include AS/A Levels, Diplomas, GCSEs, Cambridge Nationals, Cambridge Technicals, Functional Skills, Key Skills, Entry Level qualifications, NVQs and vocational qualifications in areas such as IT, business, languages, teaching/training, administration and secretarial skills.

It is also responsible for developing new specifications to meet national requirements and the needs of students and teachers. OCR is a not-for-profit organisation; any surplus made is invested back into the establishment to help towards the development of qualifications and support, which keep pace with the changing needs of today's society.

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and students, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which marks were awarded by examiners. It does not indicate the details of the discussions which took place at an examiners' meeting before marking commenced.

All examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the published question papers and the report on the examination.

MARKING INSTRUCTIONS*PREPARATION FOR MARKING*SCORIS

1. Make sure that you have accessed and completed the relevant training packages for RM on-screen marking.
2. Make sure that you have read and understood the mark scheme and the question paper for this unit. These are posted on the RM Cambridge Assessment Support Portal <http://www.rm.com/support/ca>
3. Log-in to RM and mark the required number of standardisation responses.

YOU MUST MARK 10 PRACTICE during the standardisation meeting AND 10 STANDARDISATION BEFORE YOU CAN BE APPROVED TO MARK LIVE SCRIPTS.

TRADITIONAL

Before the Standardisation meeting you must mark at least 10 scripts from several centres. For this preliminary marking you should use pencil and follow the mark scheme. Bring these marked scripts to the meeting.

MARKING

1. Mark strictly to the mark scheme.
2. Marks awarded must relate directly to the marking criteria.
3. The schedule of dates is very important. It is essential that you meet the 50% and 100% deadlines. If you experience problems, you must contact your Team Leader (Supervisor) without delay.
4. If you are in any doubt about applying the mark scheme, consult your Team Leader by telephone, email or via the RM messaging system.

5. Crossed Out Responses

Where a candidate has crossed out a response and provided a clear alternative then the crossed out response is not marked. Where no alternative response has been provided, examiners may give candidates the benefit of the doubt and mark the crossed out response where legible.

Rubric Error Responses – Optional Questions

Where candidates have a choice of question across a whole paper or a whole section and have provided more answers than required, then all responses are marked and the highest mark allowable within the rubric is given. Enter a mark for each question answered into RM assessor, which will select the highest mark from those awarded. (The underlying assumption is that the candidate has penalised themselves by attempting more questions than necessary in the time allowed.)

GCSE English Literature specific guidance:

Part a)

Where a candidate has only referred to one poem, either the taught or the unseen, the mark awarded is unlikely to move beyond Level 2 and cannot move beyond Level 3. Your comment should include: ‘only one poem considered; no attempt to compare’.

Part b)

Where a candidate has chosen a poem which is not in the cluster for that item number (for example, used a poem from the Conflict cluster to attempt question 1b) the response should be given 0 under the part b) item number chosen for part a) and the comment should state: ‘NAQ choice of text inappropriate’.

Where a candidate has responded to part a) of one item number and part b) from a different item number, both responses should be marked and the marks entered under the appropriate item numbers. RM Assessor will select the highest of the two marks. You should attach a message to any script where this occurs and refer it to your Team Leader. Team Leader should forward these messages to their Senior Team Leader or Principal Examiner.

Longer Answer Questions (requiring a developed response)

Where candidates have provided two (or more) responses to a medium or high tariff question which only required a single (developed) response and not crossed out the first response, then only the first response should be marked. Examiners will need to apply professional judgement as to whether the second (or a subsequent) response is a ‘new start’ or simply a poorly expressed continuation of the first response.

6. Always check the pages (and additional objects if present) at the end of the response in case any answers have been continued there. If the candidate has continued an answer there then add a tick to confirm that the work has been seen.
7. Award No Response (NR) if:
- there is nothing written in the answer space

Award Zero '0' if:

- anything is written in the answer space and is not worthy of credit (this includes text and symbols).

Team Leaders must confirm the correct use of the NR button with their markers before live marking commences and should check this when reviewing scripts.

8. Assistant Examiners will send a brief report on the performance of candidates to their Team Leader (Supervisor) via email by the end of the marking period. The report should contain notes on particular strengths displayed as well as common errors or weaknesses. Constructive criticism of the question paper/mark scheme is also appreciated.
9. For answers marked by levels of response:
- a. To determine the level – start at the highest level and work down until you reach the level that matches the answer
  - b. To determine the mark within the level, consider the following:

Descriptor	Award mark
On the borderline of this level and the one below	At bottom of level
Just enough achievement on balance for this level	Above bottom and either below middle or at middle of level (depending on number of marks available)
Meets the criteria but with some slight inconsistency	Above middle and either below top of level or at middle of level (depending on number of marks available)
Consistently meets the criteria for this level	At top of level

11. Subject-specific Marking Instructions

INTRODUCTION

Your first task as an Examiner is to become thoroughly familiar with the material on which the examination depends. This material includes:

- the specification, especially the assessment objectives
- the question paper and its rubrics
- the texts which candidates have studied
- the mark scheme.

You should ensure that you have copies of these materials.

You should ensure also that you are familiar with the administrative procedures related to the marking process. These are set out in the OCR booklet Instructions for Examiners. If you are examining for the first time, please read carefully Appendix 5 Introduction to Script Marking: Notes for New Examiners.

Please ask for help or guidance whenever you need it. Your first point of contact is your Team Leader.

ASSESSMENT OBJECTIVES

Candidates are expected to demonstrate their ability to:

AO1	Read, understand and respond to texts. Students should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• maintain a critical style and develop an informed personal response</li><li>• use textual references, including quotations, to support and illustrate interpretations.</li></ul>
AO2	Analyse the language, form and structure used by a writer to create meanings and effects, using relevant subject terminology where appropriate.
AO3	Show understanding of the relationships between texts and the contexts in which they were written.

USING THE MARK SCHEME

Please study this Mark Scheme carefully. The Mark Scheme is an integral part of the process that begins with the setting of the question paper and ends with the awarding of grades. Question papers and Mark Schemes are developed in association with each other so that issues of differentiation and positive achievement can be addressed from the very start.

This Mark Scheme is a working document; it is not exhaustive; it does not provide 'correct' answers. The Mark Scheme can only provide 'best guesses' about how the question will work out, and it is subject to revision after we have looked at a wide range of scripts.

The Examiners' Standardisation Meeting will ensure that the Mark Scheme covers the range of candidates' responses to the questions, and that all Examiners understand and apply the Mark Scheme in the same way. The Mark Scheme will be discussed and amended at the meeting, and administrative procedures will be confirmed. Practice scripts will be issued at the meeting to exemplify aspects of candidates' responses and achievements.

Before the Standardisation Meeting, you should browse a number of scripts, in order to gain an impression of the range of responses and achievement that may be expected.

Please read carefully all the scripts in your allocation and make every effort to look positively for achievement throughout the ability range. Always be prepared to use the full range of marks.

INFORMATION AND INSTRUCTIONS FOR EXAMINERS

- 1 The co-ordination scripts provide you with examples of the standard of each band. The marks awarded for these scripts will have been agreed by the Team Leaders and will be discussed fully at the Examiners' Standardisation Meeting.
- 2 The specific task-related indicative content for each question will help you to understand how the Level of Response band descriptors may be applied. However, this indicative content does not constitute the mark scheme: it is material that candidates might use, grouped according to each assessment objective tested by the question. For each specific task, the intended balance between different assessment objectives is highlighted in the Mark Scheme: dominant assessment objectives are flagged, or where assessment objectives are equally weighted, this is flagged, too. It is hoped that candidates will respond to questions in a variety of ways and will give original and at times unexpected interpretations of texts. Rigid demands for 'what must be a good answer' would lead to a distorted assessment.
- 3 Candidates' answers must be relevant to the question. Beware of prepared answers that do not show the candidate's thinking and which have not been adapted to the focus of the question.
- 4 Candidates' answers should demonstrate knowledge of their chosen texts. This knowledge will be shown in part through the range and relevance of their references to the text (bearing in mind that this is a closed text examination). Re-telling sections of the text without commentary is of little or no value.

INSTRUCTIONS TO EXAMINERS:*A INDIVIDUAL ANSWERS

- 1 The INDICATIVE CONTENT indicates the sort of material candidates might use in their answers, but be prepared to recognise and credit unexpected and alternative approaches where they are relevant.
- 2 Using 'best-fit', decide first which set of LEVEL OF RESPONSE BAND DESCRIPTORS for the relevant assessment objectives assessed in the task best describes the overall quality of the answer. In Unit J352/02, the AOs have different intended weightings in the different sections:

Component Exploring poetry	Intended weightings (% of GCSE)				Total
	AO1	AO2	AO3	AO4
Poetry across time Part a)	6.66	10			16.66
Poetry across time Part b)	8.33	8.33			16.66
Total	15	18.33			33.33

Keep in mind the intended weightings of assessment objectives targeted by the question when initially identifying the correct Level of Response band. For each specific task, the intended balance between different assessment objectives is highlighted in the Mark Scheme: dominant assessment objectives are flagged, or where assessment objectives are equally weighted, this is flagged, too. Using 'best-fit', adjust the mark within the band according to the dominant (if applicable) assessment objectives following the guidelines below:

- Highest mark: If clear evidence of all the qualities in the band descriptors is shown, the HIGHEST Mark should be awarded.
- Lowest mark: If the answer shows the candidate to be borderline (i.e. they have achieved all the qualities of the bands below and show limited evidence of meeting the criteria of the band in question) the LOWEST mark should be awarded.
- Middle mark: This mark should be used for candidates who are secure in the band. They are not 'borderline' but they have only achieved some of the qualities in the band descriptors.
- Further refinement can be made by using the intervening marks, if appropriate.

3 Be prepared to use the full range of marks. Do not reserve high band marks 'in case' something turns up of a quality you have not yet seen. If an answer gives clear evidence of the qualities described in the band descriptors, reward appropriately.

B TOTAL MARKS

1 Transfer the mark awarded to the front of the script.

2 The maximum mark for the paper is 40.

Question		Indicative content	Marks
1	a	“Long Distance II” by Tony Harrison and “Silence” by Anthony Thwaite. Compare how these poems present the loss of a relationship. You should consider: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>ideas and attitudes in each poem</li> <li>tone and atmosphere in each poem</li> <li>the effects of the language and structure used.</li> </ul> Please bear in mind that other content may be equally valid and should be credited. AO2: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Both poems are structured to represent the power of loss through the use of the poet’s own perspective. With Harrison, the voice of the son in the early stanzas questions the grief of his father and the father’s reluctance to let go; however, the last stanza’s confession about the “black leather phone book” shows the limits of the rational and the reasonable voice. Similarly, with Thwaite the last stanza is a wintry reminder of the power of loss despite all attempts to console oneself with the benefits of silence.</li> <li>Both poets’ use words and phrases linked by a sense of loss and unhappiness: Harrison’s “blight ... grief ... disconnected”; and Thwaite’s “alone...grey...cold...stone”</li> <li>Both poets use literary devices to present their sense of loss – both of the rhyme schemes voice a sense of finality and bleak recognition of loss; with Harrison, the simile of grief as “crime” and the metaphor of acceptance of the loss as “blight”, both capture the raw hurt shared by the family; with Thwaite, the tumbling enjambment may be suggestive of the initial welcoming of silence, followed by the heavy monosyllables of the final stanza as the recognition of loss sets in.</li> </ul> AO1: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>In both poems there is a sense of loss that is absolute and life-defining, with the loss overcoming everything else. The voice in Harrison’s poem moves from the initial scepticism around the father’s response to his mother’s death, to the admission of the calling of the “disconnected number” after his father has himself died; in Thwaite, the voice has a (possibly too fervent) welcoming of the “peace” that loss brings, that is terminated by the “cold” sense of what has gone and can’t be regained.</li> <li>In both poems, there is no sense at all of reassurance or consolation to modify the sense of loss: in Harrison, there is the straightforward assertion of “I believe life ends with death, and that is all” mirrored by Thwaite’s, “Alone, Grey, cold as a stone.”</li> </ul>	20

Question		Indicative content	Marks
2	a	“A Poison Tree” by William Blake and “Anger” by Charles and Mary Lamb. Compare how these poems present emotions leading to conflict. You should consider: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• ideas and attitudes in each poem</li> <li>• tone and atmosphere in each poem</li> <li>• the effects of the language and structure used.</li> </ul> Please bear in mind that other content may be equally valid and should be credited. AO2: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Both poets use extended metaphor and symbolism to capture how anger, if allowed to, leads to conflict: Blake uses the extended metaphor of the tree to suggest anger or wrath is of carefully cultivated, and the tempting “apple bright” fruit leads directly to his “foe outstretched beneath the tree”; Charles and Mary Lamb use the symbol of the snake to capture an inevitability about anger leading to conflict (“Mean him good, or mean him harm”).</li> <li>• Use of poetic techniques to convey how anger can lead to conflict: Blake’s sibilance expresses the unpleasant, harsh intent of the cultivation of anger...”And I sunned it with smiles”; the Lambs use blunt, hard alliteration (“bush or brake” and “purlieus of his path”) to capture the destructive path of conflict that anger leads to.</li> <li>• Both poems’ structure supports the idea of anger as a potentially harmless and understandable emotion that all too often, however, grows and leads to conflict: Blake’s sense of how anger can come and go without consequence is suggested by the brevity of the initial rhyming couplet – before the rhyme scheme of the poem takes on a dreadful, relentless energy and inevitability; the Lambs’ poem likewise considers the understandable and defensible feeling of anger (in the first twelve lines), before dedicating the last eight lines of the poem to a solemn recognition of where anger can lead.</li> </ul> AO1: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Both poems make their point by conveying a strong sense of condemnation, of outrage and of protest at the willful nurturing of anger until that it takes on a destructive power: Blake makes clear that with the telling of wrath “my wrath did end”, with the claim that anger is not inconsistent with friendship; the Lambs suggest that anger per se is not inescapably disastrous, and even that it “May assume a kind of grace”, with “reason” to defend it (in the bee’s perceived sense of threat, for example).</li> <li>• Both poems describe anger as something that works secretly within to destroy, and which in doing so harms the speaker as well as the intended victim: Blake through the metaphor of the poison that works with “smiles” and “soft deceitful wiles”, poisoning the speaker as well as the “foe”; the Lambs with the metaphor of the “poison-swelled snake” that works by “Nursing up his cherished wrath”. There is no sense of success in either of the poems, and in both present the wish for an alternative: in Blake, anger is dealt with when felt for a friend, and in the Lambs’ poem there is a desire of a “kind of grace”.</li> </ul>	20

Question		Indicative content	Marks
3	a	“Midnight on the Great Western” by Thomas Hardy and “Childhood” by Edna Jacques. Compare how these poems present an adult’s thoughts about a young person. You should consider: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• ideas and attitudes in each poem</li> <li>• tone and atmosphere in each poem</li> <li>• the effects of the language and structure used.</li> </ul> Please bear in mind that other content may be equally valid and should be credited. AO2: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Both poems use various linguistic devices to explore thoughts about a young person: in Hardy, the gruff alliteration of “rude realms” and the inadequate light offered by the metaphorical “lamp’s sad beams” suggest the danger of the world the boy is journeying into; in Jacques, the repetition of “She does not know” suggests how her innocence makes her vulnerable, while the metaphor and clumsy alliterative force of “heartache hovers” captures the threat posed to the helpless dolls.</li> <li>• Both poems are structured to give emphasis to the nature of thoughts about the young person and their future. In Hardy poem, the first two stanzas are essentially descriptive, the second half of the poem signalling the worry of the poem’s voice through questions and the movement of the poem from lines 1-10 in the present; through line 11, the past; towards a speculative future in lines 12-15; and a return to the present in the last stanza. The progress of the poem suggests the growth of the voice’s concern. In Jacques, the reverse is true: it starts with two stanzas that contain expressions of doubt about the young person, and stanzas three, four and five move away from this to a sense of relative confidence and assurance to overpower the initial worry.</li> <li>• Both poems use extensive figurative language to capture the thoughts about a young person: Hardy has the symbolic keyed box representing the unknown and worrying future, as well as the extended metaphor of the “journey” of life and what awaits the young traveller; in Jacques, the personified “poverty” is balanced by the “precious gold” and “jewels rare”. Additionally, both poems incorporate religious or spiritual language (Hardy – “region of sin”; Jacques – “peace that Heaven brings”).</li> </ul> AO1: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Both poems present thoughts that a young person’s future will be adversely affected because of their innocence that stands in contrast to the dangers of the world: in Hardy, there is the threats posed by the “rude realm” and the “world of sin”; similarly, in Jacques, the references to “poverty ... heartache ... fear” speak of a danger.</li> <li>• the two poems contrast over whether or not negative thoughts about a young person and the future are resolved: in the Hardy, the poem finishes on a note of doubt and concern about whether the “spacious vision” of the boy can compete with the “region of sin”; in the Jacques, the poem ends more confidently, with a clear sense that the “simple wisdom of a child” is more than a match for the trials presented by “poverty” and “heartache”.</li> </ul>	20

1	b	Explore in detail one other poem from your anthology which presents a memorable relationship. Please bear in mind that other content may be equally valid and should be credited. Possible poems might include: Helen Maria Williams, “A Song”; John Keats, “Bright Star”; Robert Browning, “Now”; Emily Bronte, “Love and Friendship”; Charlotte Mew, “Fin de Fete”; Edward Thomas, “The Sorrow of True Love”; Philip Larkin, “An Arundel Tomb”; Derek Walcott, “Love after Love”; Sylvia Plath, “Morning Song”; Liz Lochhead, “I Wouldn’t Thank You for a Valentine”; James Fenton, “In Paris with You”; Carol Ann Duffy, “Warming Her Pearls”; Jackie Kay, “Dusting the Phone”. AO1: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Critical overview of how another poem expresses a memorable relationship: eg. Browning’s passionate commitment to that “Sweet ... moment eternal” regardless of the negative worries about “time future, time past”; Bronte’s joyous celebration of the value of friendship at the expense of love, revelling in its “garland green”; Mew’s willingness to accept that “it’s all to pay” if that willingness leads to the unrestrained joy of “such a day”.</li> <li>• Textual reference and quotation may demonstrate appreciation of both surface meaning and deeper implications, eg. the encouragement in Walcott to celebrate and be joyful at the rediscovery of the relationship with self, the “elation”, through the extended religious imagery around “Give wine. Give bread”; Plath’s joyful metaphorical conclusion as the speaker’s new child’s voice “will rise like balloons”, with intimations of celebration, despite the earlier reservations voiced in the mentions of “...drafty museum...Shadows...blankly...”; Lochhead’s encyclopedic listing of romantic clichés and denials of their effect, until the final declaration of joyful, metaphorically clichéd helplessness within the relationship (“...I’d melt”.)</li> </ul> AO2: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Appreciation of the impact of poetic conventions such as lyrical voice, choice of stanza form, figurative language, rhythm and sound effects, e.g. how the regularity and steady tread of the rhyme scheme in “A Song” suggests the strength of the relationship lived at a distance despite the “storm” in the speaker’s soul”; Browning’s sensual alliteration (“...rapture of rage...soul and sense...Merged in a moment”) to convey his relish, enjoyment and utter focus on the moment of “Now” within the relationship, when “eyes shut and lips meet”.</li> <li>• Evaluation of the impact of language, aspects of poetic form and structure and the poet’s choice of images to encourage the reader to reflect on a strong relationship: e.g. Bronte’s relentlessly logical and unarguable iambic quatrains that capture the joy of knowing the argument is simple and undeniable when it comes to the strength and the value of friendship; Walcott’s enjambment suggesting the elation and joy of the moment when the love and regard for self is realised, with the monosyllabic imperatives of “Sit. Feast on your life” suggesting the plain truth and simple joy of that relationship discovery.</li> </ul>	20
